RECRUITING OFFICER SEEKS HELP HERE

Capt. McKenney Asks Merchants to Display Posters.

A special appeal is made by Capt. H. J. McKenney, of the local regular army recruiting station, to the merchants of Washington relative to the use of their windows for advertising the needs of the United States army and the National Guard of the District of Columbia.

The District of Columbia still needs 156 men to fill its quota for the regular army of the United States, and there are vacancies in nearly all of the organizations of the National Guard of the District of Columbia.

It is in an endeavor to furnish the District of Columbia's quota for the regular army and to fill the vacancies in the National Guard of the District of Columbia that Capt. McKenney is making this appeal to the merchants.

He asks: That the merchants allow cards of the regular recruiting station to be placed in their show windows when requested to do so by members of the recruiting service.

When cards are placed in the show windows, as mentioned above, it is requested that the merchants see to it that the cards remain in the show windows for the period of one month or longer, if possible.

Difficulty has been experienced in the past in having cards removed from show windows within a few days after they had been placed there. The recruiting service of the United States army is one of the most expensive departments of the government. A large amount of money has been and is being expended for advertising purposes.

It is believed that when this matter is brought to the attention of the merchants of the District of Columbia that they will be only too glad to assist by allowing posters and cards to be placed in their windows and allowing them to remain there as long as their business will permit.

PERSHING SOUVENIR CARDS RECEIVED HERE
Souvenir post cards of a patriotic nature were received at the Board of Trade yesterday from Paris, which quoted in one card an extract from a speech made by General Pershing on his arrival in France. The card, which was printed in French, when translated read, "I am very happy to arrive at this land of France, I admire the heroism of the French and I am proud to fight by their side. As a man and as a soldier, as representing the American government, I bring to the French people our best wishes for success."

"Good Morning, Judge"

Human Interest Stories of Police Court Happenings.

Wine, Woman and Souze.
"Oftisha, how many thirty-thirty-thirty streets is dere," asked Lucy Matthews of a cop on Thirty-third street in Georgetown the other day after she had wandered around half of the morning trying to find her way home. "Come with me little one and I will show you," politely replied the cop. Lucy was already on Thirty-third, poor soul but she didn't know it and before she caught the drift of things she recognized the flagpole on the Seventh precinct.

Lucy left home that morning intending to go to the grocery store but she went in the wrong place and came out with a load instead of a basket. The street was turning around so fast that she traveled in a circle, until the cop caught hold of the street, and made it keep still and deposited Lucy in a cell. She is now out her market money and a ten spot, but she is perfectly sober now.

John Was Some Strater.
A cop strolling down by Naylor's Alley Wednesday night thought he heard a bombardment, but on arriving he found John Waters shooting off his face a mile a minute. No one had bothered John a bit, but he hadn't a chance to have the last word for so long with his girl that he overdid it. No woman could stand still one minute when she heard such words as John used and the girl ran.

All the neighbors started cotton in their ears, closed the blinds and one of them crept up behind John and stuffed a scrub rag in his mouth. John got rid of this and he was spitting fire when the cop arrived. It is necessary to say something really naughty to be fined $10, but that is what John did.

Sam Did Slam.
Tuesday night Rosie Gillis and Sam Moss went to the movies. Sam was so restless during the show that Rosie got up and left him sitting there. Rosie went home, found a caller there and he also wanted to go to the movies. Now as Rosie hadn't seen all of the show, she went again, not thinking that Sam was still there.

Someone hollered to Rosie from across the lake and Sam jumped up like someone had shot him. He got red in the face (if such is possible) and went outside and waited. Twenty minutes later Rosie came out with her escort and Sam, like a bomb, followed her down the street. The other man didn't know Sam and asked who the bum was following him. A minute later Sam had a long stick and struck Rosie on the head. He offered her a few dollars but the stick suspended a thirty-day sentence just for luck.

Joe Wasn't To Blame.
Every now and then on F street southwest some unthinking, impolite person sticks their head out of the window at midnight when most everyone else is trying to sleep and makes a very raspy noise. Beneath this window is a collection of old shoes, bottles, bricks and other missiles.

Oh Woman, Lovely Woman.
"Woman is fickle, and man is fickle," according to Alberta Maynard, who was arrested for nearly breaking the skull of her man, Bob. When these two were married Alberta was a thin young woman, just a nice armful, but now she carries quite a little weight on her feet. Bob is not so attentive as he used to be. He stopped buying Tiffany diamonds and American Beauty roses long ago.

Alberta made the bonehead mistake of renting a room in her home to a sweet young thing. Bob wasn't blind and he had a soft spot in his heart for polka dot dresses and perfumed hair. Alberta took off her shoe, when her patience lasted no longer and she played a tattoo on Bob's head. Bob didn't like this business and it cost Alberta a ten spot, which she grudgingly paid, as Bob had earned it.

Just a Stray Child.
Just why a man wants to sleep on the edge of the wharf and run a chance of falling overboard when there are a lot of nice soft brick sidewalks handy we don't know but that is what Walter Lee has been doing for the past ten days.

The harbor police were afraid he would fall in and cover the fish and they chased him away. Walter went from there and acquired a penchant for peeping over folks back fences and panhandling on the street. He was offered several jobs, but told people he already had one, but drew no salary.

It Was So Like Home.
Just a month ago Frances Taylor came back from Atlanta where she went at the request of the government and settled in Glicks Alley. This is a tough place for a person to try to start life all over again. There are such rough, impolite persons living down there, it was hard work for Frances, being mixed in with bricks, razors, empty bottles, hard words and nightly circeuses. The other day she gave vent to her feelings and took part in a real old time argument and was arrested.

Blood will tell, however, and the court suggested to Frances that she vacuoose from the alley and quit associating with those people and keep out of trouble. She was not sent to jail, because she had seen quite a spell of it and she was released on her personal bonds.

MISSING GIRL FOUND, IS NEW YORK REPORT
Marjorie Thompson May Be in Metropolis—Mother Follows.

Reports having come from New York that a girl answering the description of her daughter, who had been seen in the Margaret Louise Home there, Mrs. Marie H. Thompson, of 15 Grant place northwest, will leave today or tomorrow for New York to try to locate her daughter, who has been missing from home for many weeks.

Mrs. Thompson is now working on the theory that her daughter may have run away with some of the young men who were paying attention to her. According to neighbors, Miss Thompson, who was only 15 years old, had threatened to run away unless she was given more liberty in choosing her young men associates. It is also regarded as not unlikely that she should have found employment in some department store in New York or Philadelphia.

STATE FOOD HEADS SWARM INTO OFFICE
The Federal Food Administration for nineteen States, who have been in conference here with the National Food Administration took their oaths of office yesterday, and left for their respective jurisdictions to take up their duties. These men are agents in their States for the National Food Administration, whose appointments have been approved by President Wilson, and they are clothed with considerable power to carry out the provisions of the food administration law.

They were called to Washington for consultation and to receive instructions in their duties. The men who have been selected as Federal Food Administrators for the various States represent a wide variety of interests, including leading business men, college presidents and educators, and farmers.

Local Merchants Will Discuss War Problems
M. A. Leese, acting president of the Retail Merchants Association, has called a meeting of the board of governors of the association for Tuesday evening, August 28, in the office of the organization in the Star Building.

This meeting has been called to take up the new problem that have arisen in trade in Washington. The necessities of the war have brought about a big change in things commercial here, according to Secretary Columbus.

DONOVAN HAS UNIQUE STATUS IN U. S. ARMY
Only Officer in the United States Without Uniform.

Acting Adjutant-General Daniel J. Donovan of the District is the only army officer in the United States without a uniform.

General Donovan is the law officer in charge of the registration and the mobilization of the District quota for the national army.

He is an expert on the regulations and is the official to whom all the local exemption boards take their knotty problems for solution. In other states the governor and the adjutant-general constitute the official board for certification into the army. In Washington, Provost Marshal General Crowder has named Donovan as adjutant-general. Commissioner Brownlow fills the position held elsewhere by the governor of the State.

General Donovan is modest and has made no request for a uniform but some of the members of the local exemption boards believe that because of his authority and his familiarity with the military law, he should be clothed in a uniform befitting his office.

He was waiting for his ship to come in he told the cop that arrested him, and he was afraid it had gotten shipwrecked. Walter's muscles have all gotten soft from so much loafing and the court sent him to Oceanquan to harden up.

John Gross, the person, was told one time that he could sing. He believed this nonsense and tried very hard to do some real singing. Folks next door were looking over prospectuses from sanatoriums and one night this week they had company. The man heard the noise and went outside with a stick to chase it away. John got an awful wallop on the forehead with profound excuses from Joe Mason, the unwitting assailant. John had Joe arrested. The noise is stopped but it cost Joe $5.

Lottie Was a Suffragette.
Two or three weeks ago Lottie Fraser bought a new toilet set for her washstand. She paid for it with money she had earned washing dirty overalls. Her hubby Jake had no more to do with this set than you have. These two unbleached Americans had a spat a few days ago and agreed to disagree and separate. They divided the furnishings of the house and each went their way.

Lottie didn't find out that she had forgotten the toilet set until Monday evening and she hotfooted it after Jake and demanded it. Jake had made a mash on another dusky maiden and he was loath to release it. Lottie picked up a chair and broke the neck of it over Jake's head. It didn't hurt very much, but Jake got sore and had her arrested. It was a good chair and he would miss it very much. Lottie was proud of her feat and the court suspended a thirty-day sentence.

GIRL TICKET SELLERS TO BOOM BALL GAME

Pretty Maids to Invade Downtown Section for Police.

That no really big thing was ever accomplished without the assistance of the fair sex may again be pointed to through the announcement that George Markward, chairman of the committee on tickets for the police widows and orphans' benefit baseball game, to be held at American League Park Labor Day.

Chairman Markward has arranged to further amplify his forces with a company of the brightest and prettiest girls in Washington, who will be asked to invade the downtown section and see to it that all good citizens respond to the appeal to help out in the fund for the wives and children of deceased policemen.

P. R. Pullman, chairman of the committee on music, has great expectations of securing the United States Marine Band for the day at American League Park, which will be in the nature of an official celebration of the event.

John Slaven, chairman of the committee on ushers, has advised General Chairman Odell S. Smith that sixty Boy Scouts will act as ushers at the big game.

Tickets for the police widows and orphans' benefit game may be had at Spalding's, 609 Fourteenth street northwest.

DISPUTE OVER PRISONERS.

London, Aug. 23.—There is a threatened breakdown in the exchange of prisoners of war between Great Britain and Germany. Germany insists upon Southwold as the part of embarkation for German prisoners. British authorities want Hull used. The reason for the German attitude is their desire to keep up the pretense that the Southwold route is the only one open to traffic.
